

The Hub for Offshore Renewables

Services include:

- Flexible tenancies
- Unrivalled conference facilities
- Networking and business support
- Access to finance and investment

OrbisEnergy is a specialist innovation and incubation centre for the East of England's offshore renewables energy business.

A flagship building at Britain's most easterly location, Ness Point in Lowestoft, it sits in an Enterprise Zone being developed as PowerPark, an offshore technology park to be home to much of the supply chain for offshore technologies.

It is at the heart of the East of England's offshore wind industry, which is at the centre of the world's biggest market for offshore wind deployment and the UK's most dense area of offshore wind development, which has a market value of more than £200bn.

OrbisEnergy brings together companies to help develop new business opportunities, generate work, projects and contracts, to facilitate a greater market share in the industry. It is key to ensuring supply chain companies have access to the wind, tidal and wave renewable energy.

Services at OrbisEnergy include:

- Flexible tenancies
- Unrivalled conference facilities
- Networking and business support
- Access to finance and investment
